SUBCONTRACTOR AND THIRD-PARTY POLICY

HITECH is committed to ensuring that subcontractors, suppliers, service providers and other third parties engaged in its operations comply with applicable legal, contractual and HITECH ESMS requirements. Relevant environmental, social, labour, health and safety, community and conduct requirements shall be identified and incorporated, as appropriate, into contracts, work orders, Codes of Conduct, specifications or other binding arrangements.

Key Commitments

- Subcontractor Agreement. Every subcontractor shall sign a formal Subcontractor Agreement with HITECH, which sets obligations for compliance with E&S standards, HSE practices, labour laws, grievance handling, and social inclusion. Performance will be monitored through KPIs, audits, and regular reporting.
- Supplier Code of Conduct. Relevant suppliers, subcontractors and service providers shall acknowledge and comply with HITECH's applicable Code of Conduct and contractual requirements, including requirements relating to ethical conduct, labour, health and safety, environmental and community responsibilities. Material or repeated non-compliance may result in corrective action, suspension or termination in accordance with contractual arrangements.
- Local Hiring and Inclusion. Where applicable to project commitments and local conditions, subcontractors shall support local employment and inclusive recruitment. Recruitment and employment practices shall be fair and non-discriminatory, with due consideration to vulnerable or disadvantaged groups where relevant. Workers shall receive applicable employment protections, wages, welfare arrangements and PPE in accordance with legal and contractual requirements.
- Training, Communication and Supervision. Subcontracted personnel shall receive induction, training and communication appropriate to their activities and identified risks, including applicable HITECH policies, Codes of Conduct, grievance channels and site requirements. Subcontractors shall assign competent supervision and maintain relevant records proportionate to the nature of their activities.
- Monitoring and Non-Conformance. HITECH shall monitor third-party compliance on a risk-based basis through appropriate inspections, document reviews, performance reviews or audits. Identified non-conformances shall be recorded, assigned for corrective action and followed through to closure. Material or repeated failure to comply may result in contractual remedies, including suspension or termination where appropriate.
- Grievance and Reporting. Workers engaged through subcontractors shall have access to an appropriate grievance channel, either through the subcontractor's own arrangements or HITECH's applicable worker grievance mechanism. Relevant third parties shall cooperate with HITECH in the investigation and resolution of grievances, including sensitive complaints, and retaliation against persons raising concerns in good faith is prohibited.
- Security Providers: Where private security services are contracted, applicable HITECH conduct, human rights, use-of-force, incident reporting, training and grievance requirements shall be incorporated into the contractual and supervisory arrangements for the security provider.
- Implementation Responsibility: Procurement and relevant Project Management functions are responsible for ensuring that applicable requirements are incorporated into third-party engagements. HSE, HR, Community Relations and other relevant functions shall support implementation and monitoring within their respective areas of responsibility. Compliance and corrective actions shall be reviewed as appropriate to the nature and risk of the engagement.
